

Get ready to hold the Government to account on NHS Pay. Update your details TODAY.

In 2023, members of UNISON and other health unions won a deal worth at least an additional £2,720 for every member of the NHS team following industrial action. The pay award imposed the previous year was just £1400.

This was a significant step forward, made possible by trade union members standing together and showing the Government they would not tolerate an unreasonable pay settlement.

UNISON are calling for early talks with the Government to achieve a fair deal for NHS workers in 2024. When we eventually have an offer on the table, we will be consulting members through a ballot. Demonstrating a strong mandate in that ballot with a high turnout will help us ensure we're sending a clear message - your participation will help us win fair pay.

Last year, thousands of ballots didn't arrive, in many cases due to members not having up to date details on our system. Enter your details below to make sure we have your correct information on file and to be certain your voice is heard.
